THE ACADEMIC PROCESSION AND REGALIA

The commencement ceremony processional begins with faculty marshals designated by the provost leading the faculty, followed by the student marshals who lead the candidates for degrees. The platform party follows and consists of honorees, members of the Board of Trustees, the president, president’s cabinet, academic school deans, faculty council chair, and the senior class president.

The history of academic dress reaches far back into the earliest days of the oldest universities. A statute of 1321 required that all “Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors” of the University of Coimbra wear gowns. In England, in the second half of the fourteenth century, the statutes of certain colleges prescribed the wearing of a long gown. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in Europe, the wearing of a robe often signified a degree candidate’s political or religious affiliation; in the northern universities and those of the British Isles, the robes signified that tuition and boarding fees of the wearer had been paid and also entitled him to special immunities in civil law, as well as providing him warmth at lectures and chapel.

When American colleges and universities desired to adopt some suitable system of academic apparel, a conference held at Columbia University in 1895, made up of representatives from various institutions, drew up a “By-Law, Regulation, or Statute” for the establishment of a suitable code of academic dress for colleges and universities in the United States. This code, with modifications made in 1959 by the Committee on Academic Costumes and Ceremonies of the American Council on Education, is still in force; the costumes and colors, trimmings, and patterns you will see are traditional, and interpret both the degree and field of learning. The bachelor’s gown, designed to be worn closed, has pointed sleeves; the master’s gown, which may be worn open or closed, has an oblong sleeve open at the wrist that hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut, and the front part has the arc cut away. The doctor’s gown has bell-shaped sleeves. It may be worn open or closed.

Black is the recommended color for all academic gowns. Bachelor’s and master’s gowns are untrimmed. Doctor’s gowns are faced with black velvet, with three bars across the sleeves; the color of the velvet may also be that which is distinctive to the degree, agreeing with that of the edging of the hood. In the 1960s, many American land-grant universities adopted the British and the Scottish tradition of using the official school color(s) for the robes of their doctoral recipients—for instance, Yale: sky blue; Harvard: crimson; University of Pennsylvania: scarlet and blue; Columbia: slate gray; Rutgers: deep red and black.

The colors you will see in the hoods of our faculty represent the various fields in which the degrees were taken:

- Apricot: Nursing
- Brown: Fine Arts
- Citron: Social Work
- Crimson: Journalism
- Dark Blue: Philosophy
- Golden Yellow: Science
- Green: Medicine
- Lemon-Yellow: Library Science
- Light Blue: Education
- Orange: Engineering
- Pink: Music
- Purple: Law
- Sage Green: Physical Education
- Salmon Pink: Public Health
- Scarlet: Theology
- Yellow-Brown: Commerce, Business, Accountancy
- White: Arts, Letters, Humanities

The hoods, differing in length for the three degrees—bachelor’s, master’s, and doctor’s—are lined with the official colors of the university or college conferring the degree, usually with one color forming a chevron pattern over the other. Hoods are edged and bound with velvet or the color appropriate for the degree. You will see in our procession many hoods edged with dark blue, representing doctor of philosophy.

Mortarboards are the approved headgear. The tassel, worn on the left side of the cap, may be gold if the holder has a doctor’s degree.

Carolyn Porco is a planetary scientist who served as the leader of the imaging science team on the Cassini mission to Saturn from 2004 to 2017 and as the imaging scientist on the celebrated Voyager mission to the outer solar system in the 1980s. Asteroid Porco 7231 is named in her honor.

Porco received her doctorate in 1983 from the California Institute of Technology in the Division of Geological and Planetary Sciences. In the fall of 1983, she joined the faculty in the department of Planetary Sciences within the University of Arizona. She was the director of CICLOPS, the center of imaging operations at the Space Science Institute in Boulder, Colorado, from 2003 to 2018. She is currently a visiting scholar at the University of California at Berkeley and a fellow of the California Academy of Sciences.

She has co-authored 130 scientific papers in the planetary sciences, including a large suite of findings on Saturn and its rings and moons as a result of her leadership of the Cassini imaging experiment. Her team was responsible for discovering lakes and seas of hydrocarbons on Saturn's largest moon, Titan; 100 geysers of water and organic materials erupting from its small moon, Enceladus; and new moons and rings of Saturn.

A popular international public speaker, Porco has presented twice at the renowned TED Conference and opened the unusual, worldwide multimedia event known as Pangea Day on May 10, 2008, with a speech illustrating humanity's cosmic place.

She was a co-originator along with Carl Sagan of the famed “Pale Blue Dot” picture of Earth from the Voyager spacecraft, and was responsible for the “Day the Earth Smiled” event on July 19, 2013, when another image of the Earth was taken with her cameras at Saturn, this time with the full advance knowledge of members of the public who were invited to take part in a day of reflection and celebration of humanity’s place in the cosmos.

In 1999, The Sunday Times selected Porco as one of 18 scientific leaders of the 21st century. In 2008, Wired magazine chose her for its first list of “Fifteen People the Next President of the United States Should Listen To,” and she was chosen in 2009 as one of “50 People Who Matter Today” by New Statesman magazine. In 2012, she was named one the 25 most influential people in space by Time magazine. For her scientific accomplishments, she has been recognized with honorary doctorates of science from Stony Brook University and from Arizona State University.

Porco was invited by Sagan to be the consultant in creating Ellie Arroway, the main character in the Warner Bros. movie adaptation of Sagan's novel, Contact, and she was the science advisor to the 2009 Paramount Pictures film Star Trek.

For her contributions to science and the public sphere, she was awarded the Carl Sagan Medal, presented by the American Astronomical Society for Excellence in the Communication of Science to the Public in 2010, and the inaugural Eliza Scidmore Award for Outstanding Science Media by the National Geographic Society in 2018.
DISTINGUISHED TEACHER AWARD 2019 RECIPIENT

Lisa M. Dinella

Professor of Psychology
Principal Investigator of the Gender Development Laboratory
Director of the Program in Gender and Intersectionality Studies

Lisa M. Dinella is a research scientist who investigates the connection between gender, academic achievement, and career development. Dinella studies children’s toy play and media exposure and how gendered experiences shape academic and career pursuits across the lifespan. She is a professor of psychology, the director of the program in Gender and Intersectionality Studies, and the principal investigator of the Gender Development Laboratory at Monmouth University. Her school-based research endeavors led to her edited book Conducting Science-Based Psychology Research in Schools and co-edited book Gender Typing of Children’s Toys: How Early Play Experiences Impact Development. Dinella gave an invited address at the White House on gender disparities in children’s toys and media. She is a consultant for Sesame Workshop, the nonprofit educational organization behind Sesame Street, and works with global toy companies to help them reduce gender stereotypes for children. Her work has been featured on NPR and PBS.

Dinella’s interest in psychology and gender studies started as an undergraduate at The College of New Jersey. Her training in conducting school-based empirical research began at the T. Denny Sanford School of Social Family Dynamics at Arizona State University, where she received her master’s and doctoral degrees in family science, with concentrations in marriage and family therapy and child development. Additionally, she was an American Psychological Association/Institute of Education Sciences postdoctoral education research training fellow.

Dear Class of 2019,

Congratulations! It is an honor to celebrate this monumental achievement with you.

Now that you have reached graduation you may be tempted to move quickly, glossing over the time to celebrate in a rush to accomplish your next terrific feat. Please resist that temptation. It makes for a more joyful life when you pause, reflect, and celebrate accomplishing your goals with the enthusiasm it deserves. Today may also be a milestone moment for loved ones who have supported you along your journey. Honor them by celebrating with them. I hope recognizing your achievements, great and small, becomes a routine practice throughout your lifetime.

My parents were first generation college students and dedicated teachers. I can still hear my father’s voice saying, “Get an education. It is the only thing they can’t take away from you.” He was reminding me of the value of an education, but he was also cautioning me that the world was filled with injustice. At the time he could not have known that I would go on to study disparities in education and the workplace. But he and my mother had already raised me to recognize the privilege that was packaged with my diploma.

While no one could take away my education, it was also not mine to keep.

The education you have earned here at Monmouth University is meant to be shared. The University has prepared you to build an illustrious career, of course. But just like great teachers refuse to be confined to the classroom, with their lessons spilling out into laboratories, museums, community gardens, and service abroad trips, I hope you will look for creative ways to infuse your education into all your life’s endeavors. Share your education with others as a parent, coach, or mentor. Use your education as you protest, petition, or vote. Let your education be your foundation as you build a non-profit organization or run for office. Be generous with your education. It is not yours to keep.

American civil rights movement leader Martin Luther King Jr. spoke at Monmouth College (now University) in 1966. By this time, he had already written the words that I hold dear:

“Life’s most persistent and urgent question is, ‘What are you doing for others?’”

I could suggest that you ask yourself this question as a way to measure your success, but I am certain you are way ahead of me. I see Monmouth University students pondering this question in the papers they write; it is reflected in their work within the community, and it is present in the careers to which they aspire. I am most inspired and filled with hope for the future when I am with Monmouth University students. I am confident that you will work together to make lasting change in the world.

I wish you a lifetime of great joy as you celebrate all your accomplishments yet to come, great and small.

And please remember: Hawks fly together.

Sincerely,
Lisa M. Dinella, Ph.D.
“Life is a journey” is an often-quoted phrase. But of what value is a journey if we do not take note of the mile markers along the way? It has been 55 years since I enrolled at then Monmouth College. Over those years I have witnessed extraordinary changes in life, science, technology, medicine, societal relations, and more. Consider the following examples: In the 1960s telephones were as portable as the length of their cords attached to walls. Complex calculations were done on mechanical calculators and slide rules. Reports were written on typewriters. Most copies were made with carbon paper. Research was done in libraries, with notes taken by hand. Correspondence was conducted by snail mail. Pictures required a camera, film, and processing. “Portable” television sets weighed 20 or more pounds with predominately black and white screens.

Today, all of the above tasks can be accomplished with the iPhone in your pocket. Why the comparison? Because with all the changes I have witnessed, there is one constant—the value of my Monmouth education. For myself, Monmouth is distinct among institutions of higher learning. From the day of its inception, the institution has always adhered to a student-first philosophy, with an excellent, dedicated, and caring staff, small class sizes, and a challenging environment. I am a product of that learning experience.

My journey, like many of yours, started with little idea of a path forward. And freshman year, my grades showed it. In short, I was bored. But in my second year I was fortunate to find myself with Monmouth professors who inspired me to follow the career path I have, and continue to enjoy, to this day. I can remember many of my instructors, but two in particular were instrumental in shaping my future: Dr. Leland Langbien in economics and business theory and Professor Emmett Collins in sales and marketing. Together they changed my life trajectory as I am sure many of the teaching staff have reached out and touched you. Indeed, Dr. Langbien and Mr. Collins became my life-long friends and acted as mentors long after I graduated.

But this is not about me, it is about you. With 50 years of experience behind me, allow me to offer a few proven suggestions for success.

- First and foremost, believe in yourself—you can do it.
- Focus. Opportunity by its very nature is fleeting. When offered or identified, give opportunity your full attention. Don’t procrastinate; get it done now and to the best of your ability.
- Find a mentor, someone who can give you guidance to help you advance in your career while also advising you on how to avoid the inevitable political minefields present in every organization.
- Network, not only among your peers but also with others unrelated to your line of work, which will inevitably change throughout your career. Whenever possible, reciprocate favors. Bringing highly qualified people from your network to your organization will benefit both you and your employer.
- Never stop learning. In today’s fast-paced world, up-to-date skills are what will carry you throughout your career.
- Use your intellectual curiosity by exploring other fields of interest. You might see a connection no one else has spotted that will lead you to success and/or be of benefit to society.
- Listen before talking. People are more receptive to your ideas after they first have had the chance to expound on their own (plus you get to pick their ideas apart).
- Your intellect is equal to or better than many of those around you. When challenged, prove it with well researched, superior knowledge of a topic.
- Never be afraid to stand up for what you believe to be right. But in the process…
- Show respect. Tolerance for other people’s points of view can lead to compromise, important in any negotiation. Many times in life, a partial win is better than no win at all.
- Give back. Become involved in your community by showcasing your talents. It will pay rich dividends as you will find yourself among others with common goals who often-times can be of help in your personal life and your career. Remember to vote.
- Tenacity is the intellectual sweat it takes to accomplish what you set out to do. Nothing beats the sense of accomplishment after you have successfully achieved a hard-fought goal.
- Don’t be afraid to take chances or to fail. You will learn more from failure than you ever will from success.
- Always remember to say thanks to those who help you, and,
- One last thought, abolitionist and political activist Harriet Tubman is quoted as having once said, “Every great dream starts with a dreamer.” By all means, be passionate in pursuing your dreams. And be happy in what you do, but remember you still have to pay the bills.

Finally, please stay involved with Monmouth. Monmouth needs graduates like yourself to ensure that the education and benefits you have experienced and enjoyed will continue to be available for generations to come. Giving of my time to Monmouth as an alumnus and trustee has been among the most rewarding aspects of my life. It can be of yours, too. Monmouth University is the sum of all its parts. And on graduation day, and now as a lifetime Hawk, you are a bigger part of us. Indeed, Monmouth is now a permanent part of you on your life’s journey. Congratulations and good luck!!!

CLASS OF 2019 GIVING CAMPAIGN
HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

“Thanks to our fellow classmates, the Class of 2019 not only exceeded their fundraising participation goal of 250 and set a new class giving record, but together the Class of 2019 helped to raise scholarship support for the Hawks that will follow in our footsteps. Hawks always fly together!” – Nicholas Verzicco ’19, President for Class of 2019

The Class of 2019 Giving Campaign exists to educate new graduates on the vital need to raise private support from alumni, which makes Monmouth a stronger, more competitive university. In celebration of the Class of 2019, graduates who have made a gift of $20.19 or more to Monmouth are recognized by wearing a blue, white, and gold philanthropy cord, symbolizing their leadership commitment and philanthropic pride.

Today, the below list celebrates every 2019 graduate who has participated as a donor to this campaign* regardless of the amount:

*The above list includes graduates who have made a gift between July 1, 2018 – April 15, 2019.
Dear Members of the Class of 2019:

On behalf of the Monmouth University Alumni Association, welcome to the alumni family – a vibrant network that boasts over 51,000 Hawks in 50 states.

Today marks a new and exciting chapter in your connection to Monmouth University – one that will continue to grow with your professional and personal development. We want you to remain engaged with your alma mater and share your accomplishments, no matter where your achievements take you.

Stay connected by creating and updating your alumni contact record at monmouth.edu/stayconnected to receive the Monmouth Monthly alumni e-newsletter, invitations to alumni events, networking gatherings, alumni discounts, and for information on how you can become involved with nurturing the Hawks who will follow in your footsteps.

Congratulations once again and we look forward to formally welcoming you to the alumni association on Wilson Hall’s roof during Reunion Weekend!

Karyn Cusanelli ’89
President, Alumni Association Board of Directors
