

Monmouth University, Department of English
Selecting an Academic Minor

EN majors have many elective credits available, and adding a minor is a productive use of those credits (EN/ED majors, too, can find adding a minor helpful in balancing their schedules and requirements, particularly if they have transferred in other required credits). You can access curriculum charts for minors through WebStudent (“Undergraduate Minors”). If you want to declare a minor, simply file the eForm, “Declaration/Removal of a Minor—Matriculated Undergraduates”). Once the form has been routed and approved, the requirements for your minor will appear on your audit.

Minor in Creative Writing: Effective Fall 2010, the EN Department will be offering a new minor in Creative Writing. This is an 18-credit minor, with the following requirements:

EN 200—Creative Writing: Introduction _____ 3 cr
200-level electives* _____ 9 cr.

Choose three courses among

- EN 210—Creative Writing: Fiction
- EN 233—Creative Writing: Poetry
- EN 235—Creative Writing: Drama
- EN 244—Creative Writing: Non-Fiction

300/400-level courses* _____ 6 cr.

- EN 312—The Craft of Writing
- EN 412—Advanced Creative Writing

Total: _____ 18 cr.

*In exceptional cases, students may fulfill one elective with an independent study (EN 299, EN 399, or EN 499).

Other Minors that Complement the EN Major:

- Writing Minor: similar to Creative Writing Minor, but with more CO courses
- Psychology: many EN/ED majors, or students who have switched out of ED, have several credits already toward this minor
- Art or Theatre
- History
- Gender Studies
- Political Science
- Communication or Journalism
- Spanish

A list of all minors and links to curriculum charts area available online:

<http://www.monmouth.edu/university/important-information-and-links.aspx>. If you have questions, please contact your advisor, or Dr. Susan Goulding, Departmental Advising Coordinator.