
YOUNG YEAST BAKERS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES

(AND SPEAK VOLUMES ABOUT THE FINE CALIBER AND PROMISE OF TEENAGE AMERICA TODAY)

We asked 650 girls, aged 13 to 19, just why they liked to bake bread. Read their lively down-to-earth reasons—and you'll be proud of tomorrow's homemakers.

A FEELING OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

"It's a little more difficult than baking with a package mix but it gives me a real feeling of accomplishment baking from scratch."
IMMACULATA SCHOOL, FLORIDA

A CHALLENGE

"Starting from scratch provides a challenge that I enjoy meeting and overcoming."
SHALER SCHOOL, PENNSYLVANIA

PRIDE OF ACHIEVEMENT

"It is enjoyable to say when someone says, 'My, what good bread,' 'Thank you, I made it myself.'"
RUSH CITY HIGH SCHOOL, MINNESOTA

A FEELING OF CREATIVITY

"It gives you a feeling of creativity knowing you've done everything yourself."
CHICAGO JEWISH ACADEMY, ILLINOIS

A CONSTRUCTIVE WAY OF "LETTING OFF STEAM"

"I do this when I'm mad about something and I can pound out my feelings when I'm kneading the dough."
RANDOLPH SCHOOL, GEORGIA

MOTHER'S ENCOURAGEMENT

"I bake with yeast from scratch because my mother believes in the best."
ELMIRA HIGH SCHOOL, OREGON

DEVELOPING A SKILL

"I thoroughly enjoy . . . turning out good yeast breads on my own with nothing to depend upon but my recipe and my own skill."
JONESBORO SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL, GEORGIA

THE CREATIVE URGE

"In baking with yeast I can try various ways of preparing baked goods. I satisfy my creative urge and my family gets fed at the same time."
GREENVILLE SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL, OHIO

IT'S WORTHWHILE

"I think women should bake things from scratch and not always do things the quickest, easiest way. It does take more time—but I think it's worth the time."
LIMA SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL, OHIO

FOR A LARGE FAMILY

"We have a large family so it makes it easier and less expensive to bake with yeast from scratch because we need bread in large quantities."
AXTELL SCHOOL, NEBRASKA
