

Will Rochelle Hunter spoil this Mrs. Smith's pie?

MRS. SMITH'S PIE COMPANY • POTTSTOWN, PA.

It isn't likely, but she could.

Imagine. We shop around the world for the right ingredients. We make the fillings, mix and roll out the crust doughs, balance the filling and crust, and put the whole thing together according to the laws Amanda Smith wrote for us in her fifteen pie-making secrets.

All that, and if our Mrs. Hunter happens to set her oven to the wrong temperature, or her timer to the wrong time, we'll get an angry letter.

So please, don't just throw Mrs. Smith's pies into the oven. Bake them as carefully as we make them, and no one's going to spoil your success. Or write angry letters.

We make frozen pies for women who wouldn't think of baking frozen pies.

In 2-lb., 12-oz. Golden deluxe, and 1-lb., 10-oz. regular sizes.
