

They say a woman thrives on change.
That's why you're always looking for something new to do.
Something new to wear.
And something different for dinner.

Today your husband turned 39, again.
And he doesn't feel much like celebrating.
Tonight, you've got to tell him how much handsomer he is now than when you married him.

Tonight your husband's working late.
He wouldn't if you had your way.
But one thing always makes you forget the waiting.
The smile on his face when he walks through the door.

It's a good day for Stouffer's.

Today your husband left on a business trip.
You've finally got a chance to start reading that new novel.
And somehow, tonight, you don't feel like eating those leftovers.

It's a good day for Stouffer's.

Today your youngest picked a flower for you
on his way home from school.
Your husband finally fixed the kitchen faucet.
And, somehow, you wish the plain dinner
you've planned were a little less plain.

It's a good day for Stouffer's.
