

Living Green Off-Campus

I hope you all are having a great spring break!

As we continue on our journey to become more environmentally aware off-campus, I thought it would be helpful to talk about some of the ways in which you can detoxify your apartment through greener cleaning products and methods.

1. Get in the habit of using cloths or rags instead of disposable paper towels. You'll be saving trees and putting less trash into a landfill.
2. Baking Soda is really amazing. Arm and Hammer lists a host of uses for baking soda which I encourage you to review. It deodorizes, it is great at cutting grease, it puts out fires in the kitchen, you can use it while washing pots and pans, it even can work as an ant-acid if you've had too much Nelly's.
3. Vinegar, like baking soda, also has a ton of uses in the home. It removes stains, it deodorizes, it can be used when washing laundry, you can use to polish or clean copper and aluminum. It will even keep fruit flies away and many other green uses.

I've also attached a couple links with more in-depth information on green cleaning. There is a wealth of information on the internet to help us learn how to live greener lives.

Good, Clean Fun
Planet Green