Writing Research Papers/APA Style

Date: Wednesday, January 15, 2020
Time: 5:30 – 8:30pm
Place: McAllan Hall, Room 329
Fee: $45/$35 for MU Students

You have the knowledge and the words, but do you have trouble with APA format, citation, or writing style? This program is designed to provide an introduction to writing research papers in APA Style.

The instructor will take you through seven steps that will strengthen your APA-Style research writing. From the title page to references and tables, tips and techniques for academic writing will be explored.

The American Psychological Association (APA) Publication Manual is required for this class. Participants should bring their own (6th edition) manual, copies are also available for purchase at the MU bookstore.

Presenter:

Patricia Sciscione PhD, RN, NJ- CSN – Assistant Professor (Marjorie K Unterberg School of Nursing Health Studies) – Dr. Sciscione has published several articles related to school nursing in peer-reviewed nursing journals and has an article undergoing peer review in the Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (IDD) journal based on her dissertation research about caregiving for an adult sibling who has Down syndrome. She is also a peer-reviewer for The Journal of School Nursing and serves as an abstract reviewer for the Eastern Nursing Research Society's (ENRS) annual scientific sessions.
