Clinical Supervision

Fridays, Oct. 20, 27, & Nov. 3
9am to 4:30pm
The Club at Magill Commons, room 108

$325
20 Clinical CEUs (with 5 Ethics, 3 Cultural Competence)

Interested in supervising colleagues on the path to their LCSW? This interactive workshop satisfies 20 hours of continuing education credits of post-graduate course-work related to supervision. In it you will learn the responsibilities of being a clinical supervisor, identify your supervisory strengths, and explore the complex dynamics of the supervisory relationship. Special attention will be paid to adhering to ethical and culturally competent practice. You must be present for each day of the workshop to receive credit. You may take this course prior to having your LCSW. Presented by Scottie Urmey, LCSW, TEP

Understanding Teen Dating Violence

Monday, October 23
9am to 3pm
Edison 201 (Atrium Wing)

$98
5 Cultural Competence CEUs

Teen dating violence is a common health issue that can have a devastating effect on a teens’ life. Studies show that approximately one in three adolescent girls in the United States is a victim of physical, emotional, or verbal abuse from a dating partner—a figure that far exceeds victimization rates of other types of violence affecting youth. In this workshop, participants will learn: how to define and recognize teen dating violence; gain an understanding of the rates of incidents of teen dating violence and the impact on them; review childhood development theory and how development is impacted by victimization; and obtain resource information on prevention and intervention. Presented by Monique Pearlman, MSW, LSW

Motivational Interviewing: Inviting and Acknowledging Change Talk

Friday, November 10
9am to 3pm
Edison 201 (Atrium Wing)

$98
5 Clinical CEUs

Seeking an advanced level of Motivational Interviewing training? This workshop offers a hands-on experiential learning approach with ample opportunity for role-plays, discussion, and case conceptualization. Participants will leave with an advanced knowledge of tangible clinical interventions to be utilized with clients, targeting collaboratively identified problem behaviors. Participants will learn how Motivational Interviewing’s emphasis on change talk makes it unique. Additionally, they will learn tangible skills for eliciting change talk with their clients, helping them to gain and enhance motivation towards making meaningful behavioral changes. Presented by Bernard Showers, LCSW, CAADC

The Opioid Epidemic: Understanding and Treating Addiction through a Trauma-Informed, Public Health Lens

Tuesday, November 14
9am to 3pm
The Club Dining Room at Magill Commons

$98
5 Clinical CEUs

The opioid crisis continues to wreak havoc on our clients, families and communities. In the last year alone, 12.5 million people misused prescription opioids and approximately 2.1 million used them for the first time. As the trauma-informed care movement in our country continues to grow traction, there is an increasing awareness of the connection between early childhood adversity, chronic, traumatic stress and addiction. This workshop will equip clinicians with an understanding of a trauma-informed approach to addiction and provide skills and tools for treating the symptoms associated with addictive behaviors in clients. A public health lens will be used to frame current thinking on systems level approaches for working with clients who struggle with addiction. Presented by Kirby L. Wycoff, Psy.D., NCSP

Understanding the Impact of Trauma and Community Violence on Clients

Friday, November 17
9am to 3pm
The Club Dining Room at Magill Commons

$98
5 Clinical CEUs

Trauma has sometimes been defined in reference to circumstances that are outside the realm of normal human experience. Unfortunately, this definition does not always hold true for the clients with whom we work. For some, trauma (especially community violence) can occur frequently and become part of their common human experience, compounding their difficulties. This workshop provides an overview of the impact of trauma and community violence on clients, and explains the tools available to address the residual effects of both. Presented by Jennifer R. Jones, PsyD, LPC

The Ripple Effect: Addiction's Impact on Family Systems

Tuesday, November 28
9am to 3pm
The Club Dining Room at Magill Commons
$98
5 Clinical CEUs

Addiction not only impacts the using individual, but the entire family. In this interactive course participants will focus on the family systems from which addiction is present. Origins of substance use and abuse, including compulsive gambling behaviors, will be traced and discussed along with family roles in the addicted household. Factors that contribute to addiction such as biological, environmental, and developmental influences will be examined across the life span, including how this ripple effect impacts generations of families. Enabling behaviors of family members will be discussed along with supports and treatment. Presented by Joanne Arnold-Velcheck, LCSW, LCADC, CTTS, DRCC

Energy Psychology

Thursday, November 30
9am to 3pm
The Club Dining Room at Magill Commons
$98
5 Clinical CEUs

Energy psychology addresses the relationship of energy systems to emotion, cognition, behavior and health. These systems include electrical activity of the nervous system and heart, meridians, chakras, biophotons, biofields, etc. Although psychological functioning involves thought, emotions, chemistry, neurology, genetics and environmental aspects, at an essential level bioenergy is also involved. This workshop will address the effects of anger and forgiveness. We will review some forms of energy psychology such as Thought Field Therapy, Emotional Freedom technique, Pranic Healing, meditation and Superbrain yoga. These tools typically help move people through their issues quite rapidly and are a great addition to your skill set. Presented by Debbie McCann-Call, MSW, LCSW

Politics, Ethics and Social Work

Tuesday, December 5
9am to 3pm
Rebecca Stafford Student Center, Afflitto Conference Room
$98
5 Ethics CEUs

We cannot pretend that our work is not political. We aim for specific results within specific policy contexts, and we work for social change within a political system. Yet it is hard to imagine how to keep our professional commitment to social justice in the current, polarized political climate. How do we ethically advocate for clients as programs and services are impacted by politics? How do we keep politics from coming between ourselves and our clients? How do we work ethically for social change? This workshop will explore micro, mezza and macro social work practice and define ethical politics for social workers. Presented by Mary Lou Killian Searles, PhD, LCSW

Addressing Internet Addiction: A Meaning-Centered Approach

Monday, December 11
9am to 3pm
The Club Dining Room at Magill Commons
$98
5 Clinical CEUs

Research has revealed problem behaviors in relation to technology use, particularly involving the internet. Dependence upon internet usage can result in behavioral characteristics akin to addiction; excessive use, negative impact on an individual’s life, and an inability to reduce or discontinue usage even in the face of causing harm. Research in human behavior has also found links between exposure to new technologies and changes in personality, specifically reduction in the ability to relate to others. This workshop will look at the evidence of internet addiction; internet addiction as a business model resulting in a moral vacuum; issues of depersonalization and diminished communication skills; and technology induced changes in behavior. Therapeutic approaches addressing internet addiction, under the umbrella of Franklian-focused Meaning-based Therapy, include Harm Reduction, Motivational Interviewing, Narrative Therapy and Behavioral Therapies. Presented by Lou Storey, PsyD, LCSW, LCADC

Military Culture for Social Workers: Effectively Serving Those Who Serve Us

Friday, December 15
9am to 3pm
The Club Dining Room at Magill Commons
$98
5 Cultural Competence CEUs

The United States military has been an all-volunteer force since the 1970s. Less than 2% of the age appropriate population volunteers to serve and defend the country. This workshop will discuss some of the common reasons that people enlist or get commissioned into the military, the transformation process from civilian to service member, and conversely, how one goes from service member to Veteran. Using a variety of short film clips, participants will hear from service members and veterans about their experiences in the military - from how they cope with the nightmares of war and boredom of deployment, to common mental health concerns, substance use and abuse issues, and risk factors for PTSD. Participants will learn questions to ask, answers to listen for, and supports to use when working with members of the military. A common refrain from service members and veterans is “civilians don’t understand us.” The goal of this workshop is to increase civilian understanding. Presented by Patricia Spencer, LCSW, MSW
